Definite Word Received By Mayor Tooley, Who Expressed Satisfaction At Successful Conclusion Of Negotiations With Both The Dominion And Provincial Governments—Also Grateful To Bank Of Montreal In Making Installation Of Water And Sewer System Possible This Year.

Mayor Tooley received definite word from the Department of Finance at Ottawa that the Town of Grande Prairie's application for a loan of $50,000 at 3% under the Municipal Assistance Act, has been granted.

When interviewed by The Tribune the Mayor expressed satisfaction at the successful conclusion of the negotiations carried on between the town and the provincial and Dominion governments for the past two months. He then briefly reviewed the steps leading up to securing the loan. He said:

"After the Municipal Assistance Act was passed we immediately got in touch with the Department of Finance at Ottawa to ascertain if a water and sewer system came within the meaning of the Act. Given that assurance, then the amount that could be borrowed was taken up."

"The approval and guarantee of the provincial government was necessary, which was granted, before the application was accepted by the Ottawa government."

Mayor Tooley gave it as his opinion that the town's sound financial position had considerable bearing in obtaining the loan.

The Mayor expressed appreciation of the Bank of Montreal's action in making a temporary loan to the town, which made possible the installing of the water and sewer system this year.

"Through all the negotiations we received the greatest consideration and courtesy from both the Dominion and provincial governments," remarked the Mayor.

To Be Guest Speaker At Canadian Club Banquet Nov. 2nd

Mrs. Madge MacBeth Of Ottawa, World-Travelled Woman, Has Had Thrilling Experiences In Many Countries—Is Fluent And Interesting Speaker.

The public are reminded that Saturday, November 5, is Poppy Day. Bright and early four young ladies will be on the streets of Grande Prairie, so have the change handy so as not to delay this energetic quartette.

The money from the sale of poppies goes to the disabled veterans. In every town in the Peace River and all over Canada poppies will be sold on this day to assist those who were disabled on the battlefields of Europe in fighting for the principles of democracy.

His Lordship the Honourable Horace Harvey presided over a sitting of the Supreme Court at Grande Prairie on Tuesday, at which there was one divorce heard and other matters disposed of.

Interviewed at his hotel by The Tribune reporter, His Lordship said that this was his first trip to Grande Prairie since 1916.

His Lordship smiled as he recalled that following the sitting of the court he and his court reporter found themselves marooned owing to the fact that the weather had turned soft and it was impossible to run the train. He then told how they got out of the "jam." A speeder finally came in from Spirit River and took us to that point. From there we were taken in a democrat to Dunvegan, where a boat was waiting, and we floated down stream to Peace River, where I held court.

His Lordship observed that he failed to recognize any of the old landmarks at Grande Prairie, so great a change has taken place in the town since 1916.

The Grande Prairie Branch of the Canadian Legion will hold Memorial Services in the Capitol Theatre on Friday, November 11, in commemoration of the men who made the supreme sacrifice on the many battlefields during the Great War. The services, which will commence at 10.45 a.m., will be broadcast.

A banquet will be held in the Grande Prairie Hotel at 7 o'clock, which will be followed by a smoker and dance.

The complete program for the Memorial Services will appear in next week's issue of The Tribune.

Percy E. Thorp, representing Willys and Nash cars and Oliver machinery, recently purchased the Dunlop property north of the post office and intends to construct a modern show-room and warehouse.

In discussing his plans with The Tribune reporter, Mr. Thorp stated that while he struck a rather poor year for his venture here, he had great faith in the country and hopes to make his home in it for a long time to come.

C.O. Pool Who Says That He Belongs To The Left Wing Is Elected President

Resolution Presented By Hon. Hugh Allen Condemning The Opening Of Social Credit Houses Carried By Small Majority—Co-operative Activities Reviewed By Roy Roberts, Chairman Of The Co-operative Purchasing Committee—Debates On Various Questions Animated And Interesting—Between 70 and 80 In Attendance.

The question of whether or not the U.F.A. goes to the left was again sidetracked at the annual convention of the U.F.A., held in the Capitol Theatre, Grande Prairie, on Friday afternoon. There was an attendance of between 70 and 80 present.

An important item on the agenda was the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, C. O. Pool; vice-president, Alex Craig; secretary-treasurer, Les Harris. The old board of directors were re-elected.

In declining to let his name stand for election for the presidency, Mr. Powell said that he had served as president for a number of years and he thought someone else should take over the duties.

C. F. Hopkins, who was secretary for many years, asked to be relieved of the responsibility and suggested that young blood be elected to the executive end of the organization.

The new president, C. O. Pool, before allowing his name to stand said that he wished to make his position clear. He informed the convention that there was a right and left wing and middle ground. "I belong to the left wing, and far out on the limb," he declared.

At the outset of the convention it was decided to give all members the privilege of the floor.

The chairman called upon Roy Roberts, chairman of the Co-operative Purchasing Committee of the organization.

Mr. Roberts reported that in connection with the purchase of twine that upwards of $500 reserve had been built up. Continuing, Mr. Roberts said that with the U.F.A. having the district in handling, it will result in more enthusiastic interest being taken in co-operative buying.

With the reserve built up," observed Mr. Roberts, "the co-operative will be in a better position to take advantage of opportunities that may be presented."

He pointed out that the Co-operative Purchasing Committee will meet the first week in November.

Hon. Hugh Allen dealt in considerable detail with the co-operative oil buying end of the organization. He drew attention to the fact that the U.F.A. Central Co-operative had entered the Peace River and has now seven stations. This, he observed, was done at the request of the U.F.A. locals.

On October 17, Alex Watt, Bruce Albright, Guy Moore and Stojan Babin, all of Grande Prairie, joined the pathfinder car crew.

Albert Smith, in charge of work on the Monkmann Pass road, who was in Grande Prairie on Thursday, stated that the last word the Association received from Frank Murphy, in charge of the crew, was that he expects to have the car at Hansard early in November.

BEAVER LODGE, Oct. 22.—Tom Foote and Cliff Duke, who were packing into the Monkmann Pass, arrived here today. They stated that when they left on October 11 the pack train was 24 men and the trail-cutting crew were nearing the McGregor River. From McGregor to Hansard, they added, the distance is 25 miles. Seven miles of this part of the trail had been cut from the eastern end.

Autumn weed growth has made extra work for many a farmer this fall.

How much can my farm be enlarged without the purchase of additional acres? There are real possibilities in this direction.

No human artist ever painted such a sunrise as greeted the eye at Beaverlodge on the morning of October 20. The best of it is that Nature's sunrise pictures are free to all—who get up in time.

"Yellowleaf," "potato sprain" and a new wilt disease are potato ailments discussed in the annual report of the Director of the Wisconsin Experiment Station, entitled "What's New in Farm Science?" We'll have them all here presently, no doubt.

It is no fun digging the sleighs out of the first winter snowfall and getting them coupled up for use. That is one of the little jobs it is nice to have done before the snow arrives.

Many experiments make out their best case if not conducted too long. In course of time seasonal variations iron out many seeming advantages indicated by more limited trials. For really accurate opinions about anything consult the neophyte.

Experienced northern gardeners like to leave their gardens fall-plowed and double-disked or cultivated, but rough or ridged. Before being plowed the Substation garden is manured, and the manure is usually disked in to mix it with the soil in advance of plowing.

Between the sheathing and the cover of a sheet-metal roof it was desired to place something to provide insulation and to deaden the sound of rain or hail on the roof. After a roll of heavy building paper was used up a pile of old newspapers was thought of and was accepted by the contractor as a satisfactory substitute. So many bright ideas sprout late.

Wheat on Gray Bush Soil—Eagle

1. I seeded 222 wheat this year and notice it piched badly on gray bush soil. I have been told that winter wheat does well on such soil. If so, will a person be able to tell it on open market if less than a carload lot; also what spread would there be in price?

An answer by Dr. K. W. Neatby in the Free Press Prairie Farmer of August 31, 1938, mentions a 20% wheat known as Dicklow. Is it a winter or spring wheat?

2. I would like to get a few pounds of the new oat, Eagle—W.L. Deadwood, Alta.

Ans.: 1. Red Bobs 222 piched quite readily and it is no surprise that it has done so on the gray soil. Winter wheat is not free from piched tendency on the whiter soils. Garnet will seemingly stand up best in color under such conditions, for its strong color tends to mask the lighter color of the straw, though its protein percentage runs low under such conditions. At present Board prices winter wheat brings about 2 1/2 cents under Red Bobs, average grades considered.

Dicklow is a late-maturing soft spring wheat. This year it matures in 122 days, or 16.3 days later than Garnet and nearly a week later than Marquis.

Since 1933, Eagle has averaged 7.3 bushels more yield than Banner and 17.4 bushels more than Victory. It has had stronger straw than either of these varieties but has matured four days later. On account of its late maturity it can hardly be recommended for this district.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange
Director "The Crop Testing Plan."

"I don't believe this Thatcher will stand up. In a few years the rust will get it."

"Why do you think that?" I said to my friend John Skeptic.

"Well," he said, "Ceres was boosted to the skies to resist rust, and you remember that after a few years it had no more rust resistance than Marquis, so I guess Thatcher will go the same way."

"For my part, John," I said, "I think you're badly mistaken. In the first place Ceres was not bred as a rust-resistant wheat, and it never had been tested by the plant breeders against rust. It simply had been found, under several very mild rust epidemics, to have a little better resistance than Marquis."

"Thatcher, on the other hand, is an entirely different thing. It was bred by some of the ablest plant breeders in the world, specifically to resist wheat stem rust. It was tested in a most rigorous way for years in the laboratories against all the forms of rust that are known, and on the farms it was not harmed by the very severe rust epidemics of 1935 and of the last year."

"Plant breeders all say they will be greatly surprised if Thatcher is ever damaged by the present forms of wheat stem rust."

Following factors have tended to raise prices: Australian outlook becomes more serious owing to hot winds. Complaints of deterioration increase—Some talk of further inflation of money by U.S.A.—India buys more Australian wheat—Some frost reported in Argentina—Possibilities of broad and active demand for barley in Europe.

Following factors have tended to lower prices: European rye harvest largest since 1933—Excessive surpluses of wheat corn and rice in the United States—Australia ships corn to Canada—France sells wheat to Italy on barter basis—Due to record wheat crop all grain or flour imported into Finland must contain a domestic mixture—Manchurian soy-bean supply above last year.

"That is the Question"

The captain had been lecturing his men on their duties as soldiers, and wishing to find out if they remembered anything, he said to one of them: "Now, then Private Dooley, why should a soldier be ready to die for his country?"

The Irishman scratched his head for a moment; then an enlightening smile spread across his face.

"Sure, captain," he said, pleasantly, "you're quite right. Why should he?"

Youth, Stand By!

By "MADGE TRUCE"

There is considerable controversy about the Youth Training Schools that are becoming more prevalent throughout the Dominion. May I tell what the one in our district last winter did for our youth?

The course was arranged so as to be presented in the coldest part of the winter. It was a real problem to find places for the girls in the homes of town residents. The boys were put in the hospital that had been closed for the winter because of the routine of chores and duties that tie them to the farm. As a result the total number enrolled in our district was over the hundred mark—a record for the Peace River courses.

It was a real problem to find places for the girls in the homes of town residents. The boys were put in the hospital that had been closed for the winter because of the routine of chores and duties that tie them to the farm. As a result the total number enrolled in our district was over the hundred mark—a record for the Peace River courses.

To fully understand how much this course really benefited our district, there are a few facts about these youths that must be known. Most of the young people thought it a rare treat to be in a town where there was actually a train passing. Although it may seem hard to believe, there was one boy at the course, 22 years of age, who had never seen a train before.

The average youth there had quit school at the end of the eighth grade. Further education for them was saved for some one else to undertake. After stopping school, life for them meant work on the farm and such pleasure as could be had from it. Outside of the weekly newspaper and the radio there was no other news for them to improve their minds or their home conditions. Both of these means may pass unnoticed. It was only when they came to the school or listened to anything but music and comedians on the radio. We are not trying to show these young people in a poor light. The whole root of the problem lay not in the youth, but in the fact that no one had tried to interest them in improving themselves or their home conditions. This fact was amply proven when they were given the opportunity to learn something new.

When winter had become most unbearable some one thought of the short course. So they came from north, east, south and west. They did not come with the sole intention of having a good time. They were well informed before hand of what was to take place in those two weeks. They came quite prepared to spend two weeks learning new things and newer and easier ways of doing the old things.

The short course classes for boys consisted of such subjects as soils, field crops, animal husbandry, dairying, farm mechanics, farm management, poultry, horticulture, entomology, marketing, practical handicrafts, recreational training and community leadership. For the girls some of these subjects such as poultry, dairying and horticulture were duplicated and an imposing list added: cooking, sewing, dressmaking, knitting, practical handicrafts, personal appearance, what to wear and how to wear it, food values and nutrition, etc., were classes that all enjoyed.

Reaction to the courses was indeed gratifying. Pupils from the outlying districts practically never missed a class although they knew it was their privilege to do so if the course did not interest them. Not only did they appear punctually at classes, but they gave the instructors the utmost attention. When asked if there was any question always plenty and they often led to very beneficial discussions.

It was most surprising to see how little the average girl knew about sewing. The majority knew how to run a sewing machine. Aside from that, out of a class of fifty some odd girls there was scarcely more than half a dozen who knew how to fit a pattern, cut out the goods and make up the dress. Knitting was another class that caused some difficulty. However, the girls picked up the work quickly. From this immediate neighborhood there were three girls who attended the short course. They had never sewed, knitted or crocheted before. This summer they made all their own frocks, blouses and skirts. One girl knit herself a sweater, and one other is at the present time crocheting one. This speaks well for two week short course. Besides sewing, handy methods of baking and canning were taught and many were the questions asked in the cooking class.

Amongst the boys, the results were much the same. Old fashioned methods of farming and poultry raising were discussed and abandoned for the newer and more practical methods. New strains of farm and poultry breeds have been introduced into the gardens. New interest has been taken in the bee industry. Interest in the experimental sub-station has been renewed.

Not only did this course benefit the young people, but it also invaded the homes. On the youths return fathers would inquire how they might improve their breed of stock. Mothers were given tips on cake baking and new ideas for rug making. Poultry houses were given a thorough cleaning and improvements added. Hotbeds sprang into being and new sunny garden plots planted. Pamphlets and bulletins on countless topics were ordered.

Aside from the studious side of the course, there were other things to interest the boys and girls. Evenings were spent with parties, films, dancing, or skating. No end of trouble was taken to assure the young people of having a thoroughly good time. Many of the young people there met people who today are among their closest friends. So matter where one goes one meets the familiar faces and sunny smiles of those whom one met at the short course. Praise and honor cannot be given to those who have helped to make these short courses possible. When I think of the improvements that have taken place in this large district and multiply it by the number of districts throughout the Dominion, I feel like cheering. At last farm youth are being given a square deal. Stand by, youth! Your turn has come!

BLUEBERRY CULTURE

As far as is known there are no commercial plantings of cultivated blueberries in Canada, but considerable interest is being shown in three experimental plantings at the Dominion Experimental Station, Kentville, Nova Scotia. There is also a small planting of cultivated varieties at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Results at Kentville would indicate that the blueberry will thrive under Canadian conditions of cultivation. Most of the varieties are hardy, comparatively free from disease or pests, and properly handled may be depended on to give a good yield of large fruits. The soil for blueberries is important. The plant apparently requires a good moisture supply but not a water-logged soil. Information as to soil types, preparation for planting, cultivation, fertilizing, pruning and varieties is contained in a publication which may be obtained free on request from the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Close Work

In a train from Southampton to London a man was speaking to an American girl who was paying her first visit to this country. "I think your English countryside is lovely," she said, "but your cattle seem much smaller than ours."

The man replied facetiously, "That is to make milking easier—to make them nearer the ground."

"Say," she said earnestly, aren't you Brits very tricky?"

Laying for the EAST

The East Likes Western
Poultry to the Tune of Nearly $2,000,000 a year

Not only do Western hens lay for the East to the extent of over 50,000,000 eggs a year, but over 6,000,000 lbs. of them, and their consorts, go East in person to grace the dining tables of Eastern industrial workers.

The East needs the West to feed it. The West needs the East as a market for its produce; so the two work together — the East by spending over $40,000,000 a year with the Western farmer, and the West — by buying Canadian-built cars.

And that's a point worth remembering, for every car bought in the West helps not only the food-consuming automobile worker — it keeps men working and on payrolls in the rubber, paint, glass, steel, parts, chemicals and many other Eastern industries, to the ultimate advantage of the Westerner himself.

MAGISTRATE GALWAY GAVE FATHERLY TALK TO BOYS WHO PLAYED HALLOWE'EN PRANK

"Curfew shall not ring tonight!" This may sound all right in a poem, but it certainly did not happen in Sexsmith on Wednesday night last. Not only did curfew ring that night but it gave an encore.

Apparently some of the young lads around town decided to put on a rehearsal for Halloween night and started on the school bell, which no doubt kept the honest burghers in that part of the town guessing as to the reason of this disturbance at this time of night.

Probably some of the lads had an ambition to study Campanology (the art of bell ringing to you) and wanted to see how the tones of the town bell would compare to those of the school bell; so they hid themselves hither, not forgetting to post scouts around to warn of the approach of the town constable.

Now, the aforesaid town constable was a little too alert for them, and having been a boy once himself, evidently knew what their tactics would be, so just as the bell rang the long arm of the law reached out and garnered them in, and on Saturday they were all lined up before the magistrate to give an account of their actions.

Mr. Galway gave them a fatherly talk and warned them to be on their best behavior in the future. He commended them for having common sense not to have monkeyed with the fire siren.

Now Halloween is just about a week away and we are hoping that this talk of Mr. Galway's will have worn off in the boys' minds and that the outhouses will all be standing on their foundations on the morning of November 1.

Why should not the boys do something original this year, such as pushing over a couple of elevators, as we have lots of them here, and one or two would not be missed this year. This would get their names in the Hall of Fame, after they got through with serving their time in Fort Saskatchewan.

HAVE USED BASIN LISTER MACHINE ON THEIR FARMS

The J. I. Case demonstration of the Basin Lister, a machine for conserving moisture, held here a couple of weeks ago, created considerable interest amongst the farmers of the district. One of these machines was left here, and the following farmers have used it on their farms: Frank Tesar, James Teasdale, LeBlond, Wm. Grierson, and J. B. Foster.

Anyone else wishing to demonstrate this machine for their own satisfaction should see Wm. Miller, agent for this company.

HOLD JOINT CELEBRATION OF BIRTHDAY; WELCOMED HOME

A party was held at the home of Miss Marion Gouchey last Friday night, the occasion being the joint birthdays of herself and Jonas Webber, also as a welcome home for Mr. Melvin Logan, who has been up at Yellowknife this past summer.

Everybody present had to either sing a song, tell a story or make a speech. All rose to the occasion and a very enjoyable evening was spent. Melvin gave an interesting account of his trip to the wide open spaces, where a man's a man, and the mosquitoes are so-and-so.

Supper was served around midnight, after which Jonas attacked a trailer to his car and took the bunch out to the Equity school-house.

The following were present: the Misses Marion Gouchey, Mabel Foss, Ruth Anderson, Gwen Wilson, Opal Johnson, Betty Johns, Clara McManus, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Dumstad, Messrs. Jonas Webber, Melvin Logan, Henry Logan, H. Dumstad, Mel Sumner, Duncan McPhail, and O. Gust.

Like The Tribune Best

Members of The Tribune staff during the past four weeks have conducted a survey of subscribers. One very gratifying feature of the survey was that where, because of poor crops, etc., it became necessary for a subscriber to drop one or more papers, The Tribune was retained. Practically the same reason was given in all cases, "We like it best."

Which brings to mind a revised version of an old saying, "He who makes the best mouse trap does not have to give it away—the world will beat a path to his door to buy it!"

Rands, who also gave two readings and then followed with a lecture on the "Eighth Wonder of the World," the greatest engineering feat in the history of man, the Grand Coulee Dam in Washington. AN "INCIDENT" AT GRASLITZ, IN SUDETENLAND

This photograph shows the remnants of two private cars which were proceeding from Eger carrying Nazi sympathizers. Seeing a body of Czech soldiery coming from the opposite direction the occupants of the cars opened fire on the lorries in which the Czechs were riding, not realizing that immediately behind the lorries was a Czech tank. The tank opened fire on the Nazi with machine guns and dropped two hand grenades into the cars, killing nine persons and reducing the motorcars to wreckage, as shown.

Producing a spiel for this week's "Here and There on the Air" is a "put-over." The following, taken from CJCA's publicity release, fills the bill nicely. I do not know who wrote it, but whosoever did, he has credit coming to him. He writes:

Have just read one of the all-too-few important books on the radio industry. It was published this year by William Morrow & Company, titled "Television: A Struggle for Power," it deals lightly with early phases of sound radio, gives details of television and prophesies the coming of facsimile.

If your interest in radio goes deeper than today's program listings, you will enjoy this book. It is courageous in its statements, staunch in its protection of the public interest against powers which it claims would monopolize the airwaves, dramatic in describing the fight between those who seek the sole monopoly. It urges present-day radio fans to learn the significance of television and facsimile: be prepared to see that they are not abused.

Highly interesting is the description of German plans to use television for means of political propaganda at home, without allowing it to cross the borders. Germans, while able to purchase television sets, would operate type which is fed by cable rather than by airwaves; would receive only such pictures as their home distributing station released. Listeners across the borders would receive nothing from German transmitters. Thus Herr Hitler could speak to his people, illustrate his speeches, and be heard and seen only in the homeland. What a difference from his recent radio address, which was heard across the World!

And on the heels of television will come facsimile—both in the near future.

Few realize the importance of facsimile. It means, simply, a transmitter which will send out over the airwaves impulses which specially constructed receiving sets will assemble into written words.

Imagine turning on your radio and having a printed page turned out before your very eyes! Your morning paper written by a radio stylus right in your own home.

This volume by Waldrop and Borkin makes apparent the nearness of these innovations, the importance of them, and their danger! It urges the public to minimize the dangers by being well-informed on the subject.

I found "Television: A Struggle for Power" a real source of information and good reading besides. It was recommended to me by a CJCA staff member, and I pass that recommendation along to you wholeheartedly.

So much for the future. Let's do some reminiscing about the days when radio was young—way back in '28. Remember how the gang got

HERE and THERE "On the Air"

Edited by Arthur Jackson

CBC'S FIRST SHAKESPEAREAN STARS

together with some lucky radio owner... hunched close to a horn-shaped loudspeaker, waited breathlessly for whistling static to melt into human voices?

In those days my favorite announcer worked for WLS, Chicago; and if I had ambition then, it was to announce like Jack Holden. But 1933 brought the national band dance and there wasn't a kid in town whose allegiance didn't switch to that hill-billy expert, Uncle Ezra. It was months after I'd listened to his amusing patter before I learned that old man Ezra was the same Jack Holden—my favorite announcer—doing his act. What a thrill!

I've discovered since that Holden played many parts since those old days when he spied from Chicago. He was with Tom Mix and his Ralston Straight Shooters, 1937-38—Public Hero No. 1, 1937-38; and is currently a member of a writing and production firm at the same time.

But what I'm getting at is this: Soon it won't be necessary to do any dial-twisting to bring in rustic Uncle Ezra. Station CJCA announces that beginning Tuesday, October 25, he will be brought to Canada via CBC networks; and CJCA listeners will hear him each Tuesday and Friday, 8:45 to 9 p.m. Here's one that will tune in, and you can lay to that I've lost a lot of childhood thrills like crackerjack and yo-yos—but I'm still a pushover for Jack Holden in any part.

Mrs. R. Carveth.

petent teacher and one who endeared herself to her pupils by her sweet and winsome personality. There are 34 students in the High School now who passed under her tuition during the time she was on the staff of the Montrose School.

Leaving Grande Prairie, she went to Peace River, and it was whilst there that she was married to Mr. Rupert Carveth. They were married in St. Stephen's College Chapel, Edmonton, by Dr. A. Tuttle, the principal of the college, who is a personal friend.

In his tribute the Rev. A. Willis Cann said in part:

"One cannot think of her whose loss we mourn today without realizing that she was one who had achieved a completeness, a symmetry, a beauty, which is rarely surpassed even by those much older in years. She was a young woman, but she exhibited a strength, a patient wisdom, a whiteness of soul which made it a joy to know her. Not often are we privileged to know one so rich in unselfish consideration, so cheerful in affliction, so courageous in facing death. For months she knew the worst yet feared it not. It must, at first, have been a bitter thought that she would have to go for she must have desired to see her little and grow up and develop. Life held rich and precious promise for her, but Christian faith smoothed the way to a gracious resignation which enabled her to be submissive."

The hymns chosen were "Breathe On Me Breath of God," a favorite hymn of the deceased's, and, "We Cannot Think of Them as Dead."

The organist of the church, H. L. Vaughan, presided at the organ, and the quartette consisting of Mrs. H. L. Vaughan, Mrs. Cann, Mr. J. Pickard and George Patterson, led in the singing.

Interment was made in the Grande Prairie cemetery.

The pallbearers were: C. C. Raison, Robert Cochrane, Joe Harrison, J. H. Simons, C. Stredinsky and T. Newton. Funeral arrangements were in charge of J. B. Oliver.

distribution stations over the entire province, a position which has always been desired.

Mr. Allen urged the members of the various locals to patronize the co-operative in the purchase of their oil and gas.

Futility Of Opening Up Social Credit Houses

Following the dealing with the co-operative activities of the U.F.A., Mr. Allen moved the following resolution:

"That this convention go on record as being entirely opposed to the Alberta government's scheme of opening Credit Houses as a futile and costly scheme, ineffectual in increasing purchasing power, ill advised in discriminating against groups not made in Alberta and vicious in proposing to bonus the purchase of certain goods out of the public treasury.

"Further the Credit Houses seek to do the bank's business without accepting the bank's responsibility and would make the transaction of business a cumbersome and complicated matter."

In moving the resolution, Mr. Allen said that it did not come from any local—he alone was responsible for it.

He observed that he did not move it with the intention of slapping any Social Creditor in the face. He charged that the government took over $200,000 of the people's money to use a Chinese phrase, "to save their face," and as an excuse for not having done anything. It is a case, he said, "of put in but you cannot take out."

"If you go to a bank, and you are solvent," remarked Mr. Allen, "you can get money, but you cannot borrow one cent from the Social Credit Houses."

Speaking to the resolution further, Mr. Allen said that the Social Credit Houses do not supply any essential service which the financial institutions, do, and he asked what is the function of these Credit Houses.

Mr. Allen held that it was utterly foolish to bonus Alberta-made goods. "Until the province becomes a sovereign state, for goodness sake let us leave off meddling with those things over which we have no control."

I. V. Macklin, in opposing the resolution, said that he could not see why the organization should "knock" the idea of Social Credit Houses, which he held would do no great harm to anyone. He thought the idea should be helped along.

Albert Wertz remarked that he was in agreement with Mr. Macklin. The idea is not sound it will kill itself.

In the opinion of E. Sather, the resolutions I carried, would create disharmony among the farmers.

C. O. Pool said that he was not a Social Creditor, but he believed a government elected by an overwhelming majority should be given a chance. In Mr. Pool's opinion, if none of the acts had been disallowed Social Credit would have been dead.

"Social Creditors are progressive," observed Mr. Pool, "and we want to keep together those of progressive thought. I am opposed to uniting with reactionaries."

Uri Powell, in supporting the resolution, remarked that if the organization did not declare itself as opposed to the proposition, it will get out all over the province that the members are in favor of it.

C. F. Hopkins observed: "I cannot see that we are wrong in stating that some of the modern experiments are wrong and costly. I don't think it will hurt anyone, including Social Creditors, if the resolution passes."

Les Harris remarked that he would like to see the resolution redrafted in such a way as not to give offense.

Mr. Allen in closing the debate on the question stated that the government refused to tell the Bowell commission what they considered wrong with conditions. "I ask you, is that the proper attitude?" remarked Mr. Allen with emphasis. He then went on to say that the province has not the control of its credit and he held that the organization was in duty bound to protest against the Social Credit Houses for the reason that they do not increase purchasing power.

Mr. Allen contended that the government cannot explain the mechanism of the whole Social Credit scheme, and in his opinion the meeting should protest against the scheme.

The resolution was then put and carried by a small majority.

The U.F.A. and C.C.F. The meeting then discussed the future political policy of the U.F.A.

Quite lengthy and interesting debate revolved round a resolution submitted by Glass Lake local.

"Resolved that the U.F.A. clearly define its position as having no affiliation with the C.C.F. in the provincial field and definitely decide to continue in politics as an occupational group."

L. Stickney expressed himself as being opposed to giving way to the C.C.F. in provincial affairs. As he saw it, the U.F.A. had everything to lose and nothing to gain. To affiliate with the C.C.F. would result in detracting attention from provincial problems. If it were possible to elect two members to the provincial house the farm block would be represented. The principal thing is to co-operate with ourselves in what no one else can do for us."

E. Sather thought that it is impossible for the now small group of loyal U.F.A. members to back C. F. Hopkins pointed out that the decision arrived at would go to the central body and for that reason the decision should be unanimous.

Mr. Hopkins further stated that he was not concerned about the C.C.F. or U.F.A., but rather that the farmers should be represented.

Having harmony in mind, Mr. Hopkins moved that the constituency be given local autonomy and the members be allowed to nominate either a U.F.A. or C.C.F. candidate.

I. V. Macklin, after remarking that by the resolution it was impossible to decide that the organization go out of politics or not, moved a substitute motion that the U.F.A. continue in politics in the provincial field. The motion was ruled out by the president.

Mr. Allen: "Should we confine ourselves to the economic field, can we afford to go entirely out of politics and take chances by being split up as a futile and costly scheme, ineffectual in increasing purchasing power, ill advised in discriminating against groups not made in Alberta and vicious in proposing to bonus the purchase of certain goods out of the public treasury."

Turning his attention to the C.C.F., Mr. Allen said that the main danger of radical thought is an ill-considered program. He charged that the C.C.F. was ill-considered. "Bill Irvine, provincial organizer for the C.C.F.," observed Mr. Allen, "stated that the value of oil production in the province was $600,000,000, when in fact it was $7,000,000. If a system is to be successful the facts must be known, otherwise the building will collapse under the weight of time and make sure of the facts."

Continuing, Mr. Allen said that the trouble in the past has been that in the past his party with them parties have made fabulous promises. He suggested that the U.F.A. executive complete a statement and present same to the public.

I. V. Macklin observed that if the members could ask the people of all political views to support the co-operative movement.

C. O. Pool said that he had been in the U.F.A. since its inception and voted that it go into politics. He felt that the educational value of the experience and contended there is no great danger that the members will go back. The trouble, he said, was that there were so many divisions which evidently cannot be harmonized and the co-operative side of the organization had been hampered by the political side.

Mr. Pool in conclusion stated that he believed that the political side of the organization would be better if it went out of politics.

The whole question was again tabled.

Mr. Allen moved that a committee composed of the executive of the local constituency, plus himself, be appointed to draft a letter requesting the executive to recede to a statement along the lines he had previously outlined. The motion carried.

"Northern Lights" Bazaar Bigger And Better

There were no dull moments at St. Joseph's C.W.L. "Northern Lights" Bazaar if you "come and get it." It opens Friday, October 28, at 6 p.m., with a tasty Boston baked beans supper with all the trimmings, including every known species of pie. The evening fun continues with a monster bingo, the prizes ranging all the gamut of the necessary, the useful and the ornamental—there being turkeys, geese, chickens, mops, thermos bottles, blankets, rugs, Christmas dolls, pyrex-ware, and two cases of yet unopened and unfashioned values.

The fancy work booths have high-class values, and for your winter comfort Mr. "Twelve-Foot" Davis has buried the usual ton of dime-a-claim coal.

Tops in value is a democratic try at a 1939 De Luxe Hudson sedan, to be won by the lucky draw, to be held on Saturday, November 23 in Edmonton.

Newest in fun-production is "Ring the Neck of the Golden Goose." It can be done by chance or design, and it really doesn't bother the goose.

There will be a tea, candy and home-cooking sale on Saturday afternoon from 2 to 6 p.m.

Note that the children's Monster Fish Pond opens on Saturday at 2 o'clock and continues till all the big fish are angled out.

All the fun and games continue Saturday till midnight, at I.O.O.F. Hall, Grande Prairie, which has been beautifully decorated in the Halloween spirit.

M.P.H.A. Broadcast Over CFGP For This Week

By Gertrude Charters

Good evening, friends of the Monkman Pass Highway.

When I say friends of the Highway, I mean friends of the people, of men, women and youths all over the Peace River country, in Vancouver, Prince George, and all the other towns along the way in British Columbia as well as friends and well-wishers scattered throughout Canada and on into this United States.

The school children are busy practicing for Halloween party on Friday, October 28. All mothers and children are invited.

Most of California's "ghost towns," communities which numbered thousands of souls, now abandoned to pack rats and an occasional squatter, were founded in the hope of increasing greatness.

Today, however, a town has been built in the positive knowledge that it will never amount to anything.

On the crest of the sleepy village, with no past, no future, is called St. Petersburg, Missouri. Up and down its dusty main street, shimmering in the heat waves, trudge Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn, Aunt Polly, Muff Potter, the town drunkard, Injun Joe, the river renegade, Becky Thatcher, and all the other characters of Mark Twain's imagination.

When Mark Twain wrote "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," he wrote of Hannibal, Mo., on the Mississippi, but in common with most authors he gave his locale a fictitious nomenclature.

The Hannibal that Mark Twain knew as a boy is reproduced for the screen as the St. Petersburg of which he wrote.

When St. Petersburg was translated into shadows for David O. Selznick's production of the Twain classic of boyhood, it took its place among other ghost towns left to wither in the California sun. Its entire life as an inhabited community was just a few weeks ago.

Norman Taurog directed the production. Tommy Kelly, the 12-year-old unknown from the Bronx, appears as Tom Sawyer, Jackie Moran as Huckleberry Finn, May Robson as Aunt Polly, Walter Brennan as Muff Potter and Ann Gillis as Becky Thatcher. Victor Jory as Injun Joe and Mickey Rourke as Joe Harper.

"The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," which is booked for showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday, next week, at the Capitol Theatre, is released through United Artists.
